

Intensives(2024)

- Our intensive therapy programs, which may include combinations of occupational, physical, & speech therapy, are customized for each child based on their needs & goals.
- Your child's session may include several Dynamic Movement Intervention (DMI) exercises, Neurodevelopmental Technique (NDT), therapeutic exercise, Constraint Induced Movement Therapy (CIMT), therapeutic activities, range of motion, Task-Specific Electrical Stimulation (TASES), incorporation of Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC), Dynamic Temporal and Tactile Cueing (DTTC), Prompts for Restructuring Oral Muscular Phonetic Target (PROMPT), components of Orofacial Myofunctional therapy, as appropriate
- Intensives can range from 1-3 weeks long, 5 days per week, with the child participating in therapy at least 2.5 hours a day or 1 session.
- Please provide an updated assessment/progress report from your current therapists. In addition Bumblebee therapists will complete a quick assessment of your child and take a comprehensive look at their abilities, medical history, and contributing factors causing delays in gross motor, fine motor, and communication skills.
- The therapist will work with the child and family to develop a unique plan of care in order to reach the family's specific goals.
- Your child may see one or multiple therapists. All sessions are physically demanding, so we will work with you to schedule based on your child's endurance and tolerance to therapy.
- One of the most important aspects of the intensive is the home exercise program. Caregivers are encouraged to be present for part of the sessions. The last 2 days are crucial for caregiver education and home exercise program development.
- Scheduling is done on a first come, first served basis. To secure your intensive, we require a non-refundable deposit upon booking that will go towards your total cost. The remaining balance shall be paid on the first day of the intensive. The rate is $220 USD per hour.
- Intensives occur in the clinic, located at 4315 50th St NW, Washington DC 20016. Please inquire with alexa@bumblebeepediatrics.com regarding availability and pricing if seeking in-home opportunities.
- Bumblebee Pediatrics is not in network with any insurance companies, but you may request a bill and receipt that you can submit to your insurance company or health savings account.
